

Our legends were not written. They were forged. On the dirt, mud, and asphalt of America's roads. In the heat of battle. Under the pressure of competition. On the salt at Bonneville. Since 1901. These are the legends that forged America's first motorcycle company.

Legends are not defined by the stories they tell, but by the stories that are told of them. So while our history matters, it's what we do next that will define us. Legends never follow. Never settle for the road most ridden. And are never satisfied repeating history. Because they demand the opportunity to write it.

The Indian Motorcycle Company, in collaboration with The Rokker Company®, have crafted a line of motorcycle jeans that deliver the style and comfort that our riders desire, combined with the safety they demand, manufactured using only the highest quality materials.
